Dr. Frank Ralls outdid himself this year with a stellar group of speakers and topics. It was delightful to reunite with our fellow Family Physicians from throughout the state and surrounding states, even as far as Wisconsin! We all share a great diversity of interests and strengths, each with a unique art of practicing medicine; and, because we all share strong common goals, our diversity makes Family Medicine, Strong Medicine! The speakers spent countless hours preparing for the Winter Refresher and were well received as reflected in the Final Evaluations. Favorite comments include: “practical”, “helpful”, “freaking awesome”, “educational”, and “I get it!!!”. The final Q & A was reminiscent of sitting with family and friends watching an enjoyable evening talk host program except this one provided valuable and practical educational material that is useful to most of us on a daily basis.

The hotel kept its bargain as to being one of the best locations in Albuquerque for service and quality of food, and the attendees once again enjoyed visiting with their peers. The Second Annual Poster Session was well received; the residents worked long and hard on preparations and proudly displayed their projects. Plans are already in motion for a Poster Session in 2018. The combination of our fantastic NMAFP staff, speakers, vendors, and reuniting with fellow family practitioners, other providers and great residents and students made the Winter Refresher enjoyable and so valuable on many levels. The Winter Refresher is definitely the place to be in February!

A special thanks goes out to all the vendors that attended the NMAFP Winter Refresher in Albuquerque on February 11th. They are: American Massage Therapy Assn. (New Mexico Chapter); BCBSNM; Christus St. Vincent Health System; Dairy Max; E strategy Total Waste Solutions; Hidalgo Medical Services; HIPAA.host; Indian Health Service – Pinon & Tsaha Health Center – Navajo Area; Lovelace Medical Group; MHM/Centurion of New Mexico; New Mexico Health Resources; New Mexico Primary Care Training Consortium; OsteoStrong Albuquerque Midtown; Pathology Consultants of New Mexico; Petroglyph Pathology Services; Presbyterian Healthcare Services; Presbyterian Medical Services; Quality Sleep Solutions; Roswell-Chaves County Economic Development Corporation (EDC); Steady Networks; TeamHealth; UNM Health Sciences Library and Informatics Center; UNM School of Medicine Office for Community Faculty & UNM Preceptorship Office; UNMMG Locum Tenens & Specialty Extension Services; and US Army Medical Recruiting.

A very special thanks also goes to the Co-Sponsors of the Winter Refresher: Dairy Max; Luna Community College; Memorial Medical Center; The Doctors Company; and UNM School of Medicine, Office for Community Faculty.
President’s Column
By John Andazola, MD

It’s mid March as I sit down to write my third President’s Column. Spring training and March Madness are in full swing, and for those of us in graduate medical education, it’s match season. It’s the time when new interns are matched to their future residency programs. This exciting time of year is also a time when we often focus on renewal. With the thought of renewal, I’d like to continue the conversation about the social determinants of health and upstream medicine.

I truly believe that we have been in a time of social change and renewal and that we are now facing a time when the decisions made today about education, the environment, and health care will have significant effects on the health of the people who live in our communities. Again, I know that these are big issues, and they seem impossible to affect as Family Physicians; but, having a strong foundation of understanding on these issues, is the first step to make positive changes. As I stated in my previous articles, one’s zip code has a bigger influence on one’s health than does one’s genetic code. In addition, I spoke of the three dimensions of health disparity where an individual’s health is determined by 1. Social factors. 2. Access to care and 3. Quality of care they receive.

Today I would like to talk about structural violence and vulnerability. These are terms taken from anthropology that describe legitimized structures which cause harm to a group of people. Such violence is often difficult to see because it appears to be simply “the way things are.” The concept of structural violence is usually used to describe economic or legal structures that harm people we recognize as suffering from the negative impacts of health disparities. An example of this are labor laws that excluded agricultural laborers from the New Mexico Workers’ Compensation Act. This law did not require the agricultural industry in New Mexico to provide workers’ compensation to farm workers. The intent of the law was to protect the small farmer and/or rancher from the burden of providing workers’ compensation, which could have a significant negative financial impact on these small organizations. However, it also led to limits on access to health care for a group of impoverished individuals who are many times paid below minimum wage working in one of our state’s most hazardous industries. Another example that hits home for me is the border checkpoint between Las Cruces and Hatch. The residency in Las Cruces provides prenatal care to the people in the Hatch Valley which is a large agricultural area. Many of the women in this community are migrant farm workers that regularly struggle to cross this checkpoint due to fears of harassment or deportation; and, thus, their access to prenatal care is limited, which can have a significant negative impact on their health and the health of their children. As you can see in these examples, there are legitimized structures that can cause violence to a group of individuals. Many times the harm caused by these structures is not intentional. Many times these harms are not even recognized or just considered the norm. Sometimes it’s something simple like a highway that divides a neighborhood from a park, and data has shown that as distance increases from green spaces so does the incidence of coronary artery disease.

Laws and policies are being proposed at both state and federal levels that will potentially cause significant harm to our patients. These laws will limit access to affordable health insurance to those in greatest need. This is structural violence, and it will make our already vulnerable populations even more so. Policies are being proposed that will have a negative impact on our educational system and the environment. As Family Physicians and leaders in our communities we must make our voices heard. We must represent those in our communities that are most at risk. I am proud of the work that the legislative committee of the NMAFP is doing. They are representing the physicians of our state and more importantly the patients they serve. I invite you to make your voice heard. Please let me and the academy know how we can represent you and your patients. Keeping in mind the current structures and potential structures being developed in new policy proposals, let’s work together to make our communities healthier.
Learn More About Your NMAFP Board of Directors Attend a Quarterly Meeting as a Guest

NMAFP is looking for members interested in learning more about the BOD. See below a Fact Sheet that describes the NMAFP Committees, Annual Schedule, and Officer descriptions.

NMAFP BOD Fact Sheet
Current Active NMAFP Committees:
1. Legislative Affairs Committee, Dr. Rick Madden, Chair: Concentrates on Legislative activities throughout the year and especially during the Legislative Session. Chapter Exec works closely with the Legislative Affairs Chair.
2. Scientific Advisory Committee, Dr. John Andazola, Chair: Meets once a year during the state conference with the intention of building a speaker data base for the following year’s conferences. Chapter Exec works closely with this Committee throughout the year.
3. Scholarly Activities Committee, Dr. Dan Waldman, Chair: Concentrates on resident & student activities during the year. Also works on the Annual Resident & Student Poster Session at the NMAFP Winter Refresher in Albuquerque.
4. Communications Committee, Dr. Frank Ralls, Chair: Editor of the newsletter, Roadrunner, and responsible for accepting ads for the website. Chapter Exec works closely with the Communications Chair throughout the year.
5. Chapter Affairs Committee, Dr. Dion Gallant, Chair: Works closely with the Chapter Executive and is responsible for collecting the Chapter Executive’s yearly employee evaluations and reporting the results to the Board. The Chair also oversees the Budget Meeting each year in the Fall.
6. Membership & Nominating Committee, Chair TBD: Concentrates on membership recruitment and retention. Also recruits and educates potential Officers and Board Members. Chapter Exec works closely with the Committee throughout the year.

BOD Yearly Schedule
There are four BOD Meetings a year. The winter meeting is always the night before the Winter Refresher in Albuquerque. It is held at the NMAFP Office in Albuquerque, dinner served. The summer meeting is always on Saturday during the State Conference, and lunch will be served. The fall and spring meetings are held at the NMAFP Business Office in Albuquerque on a Saturday at Noon, lunch served. 2017 Dates: April 22nd, July 29th in Ruidoso, & Nov. 4th.

There is one Budget Meeting a year, and this year, it takes place on October 7th, the day after the Med Student Reception at the NMAFP Office in Albuquerque. Dr. Dion Gallant, Chapter Affairs Chair, and the 6 current Officers make up the Budget Committee. The Chapter Exec works closely with this Committee throughout the year.

Order of Officers
1. First Year as Officer on the Board - Vice President - is responsible for helping to plan the annual Med Student Reception that takes place in 2017 on Friday, October 6th, 6-9 pm. During this year, the Vice President attends the 4 Board Meetings, 2 Conferences, Budget Meeting, and has an opportunity to learn from the other officers what will be expected as he/she moves up in the ranks.
2. Second Year as an Officer on the Board - Secretary-Treasurer - Works with the new Vice President in the planning of the annual Med Student Reception which takes place in 2017 on Friday, Oct. 6th, 6-9 pm. attends the 4 Board Meetings, 2 Conferences, Budget Meeting and is still on a learning curve.
3. Third Year as an Officer on the Board - President-Elect - Attends the 4 Board Meetings, 2 Conferences, Budget Meeting, and is the Scientific Program Chair for the Winter Refresher. He/She is responsible for contacting speakers to present at his/her conference. Sara works closely with the President-Elect on this project, and so will the Scientific Advisory Committee.
4. Fourth Year as an Officer on the Board - President - Attends the 4 Board Meetings, 2 Conferences, Budget Meeting, and is responsible for addressing various issues that come into the NMAFP Business Office from the press, other organizations, etc. The President writes 4 articles during his/her year as President for the quarterly Roadrunner that is mailed to 900 members and posted on the NMAFP website. The President is the Scientific Program Chair for the summer conference, just as he/she is moving to the final officer position of Immediate Past President. There is an 18-month period in between the time the President-Elect is Scientific Program Chair for the Winter Refresher and the President is the Scientific Program Chair for the Summer Conference. Sara works closely with the President on this project, and so will the Scientific Advisory Committee.
5. Fifth Year as an Officer on the Board - Immediate Past President - Attends the 4 Board Meetings, 2 Conferences, & Budget Meeting. He/she also supports the NMAFP initiatives and helps Board Members in any way he/she can. The Immediate Past President is available for questions from the press, other organizations, etc. that come into the NMAFP Business Office.

Board Chair - The Board of Directors shall annually, immediately subsequent to the annual meeting, elect a chairman from among its members, who shall preside at all meetings of the Board. The Board Chair also attends the 2 Conferences and annual Budget Meeting. Sara gets approval from the Board Chair before the Agenda and Minutes are shared with the BOD members. The Board Chair is also available for questions from the press, other organizations, etc. that come into the NMAFP Business Office. Outgoing Board Chair will orient the nominees for Vice President before the election takes place at the summer conference each year.

Population Health Fellowship for Primary Care Physicians
The Population Health Fellowship program is an important component of the core strategy that supports Presbyterian’s commitment to lowering the cost of healthcare delivery and engaging physicians in value-based care delivery. Our range of healthcare services, distinguished health care leadership and our commitment to improving the health of communities we serve, make Presbyterian the perfect place to develop the interdisciplinary skills, knowledge and experience in the delivery of population health practice, approaches and interventions while establishing your role with the Presbyterian Medical Group (PMG) as a primary care physician and healthcare leader.

Fellowship Program
The fellowship is designed for physicians interested in careers in primary care-based, patient-centered population health, with a focus on improving the health of medically underserved populations, improving the quality of primary care, and enhancing patient experiences and outcomes in our state. The twelve-month fellowship is split between clinical practice in a PMG primary care clinic and fellowship program work. A certificate will be awarded upon completion of the program.

Curriculum
The program is designed to prepare fellows to become clinical leaders, advocates of population health and agents of positive and effective change through a range of competencies that will enable the fellow to understand and experience the day-to-day opportunities and challenges in a value-based care organization.

Topics include:
- Leadership Development
- Population Health
- Healthcare Finance
- Case Management
- Patient Centered Medical Home
- Medical Cost Management
- Health Plan Operations
- Clinical Quality
- Data and Analytics
- Information Technology

Benefits
- Competitive salaries
- Medical, dental, vision, disability and life insurance
- Vacation, holiday and professional leave
- Retirement – Shared Security Savings Plan
- Support for continuing medical education (CME), memberships and meetings.

NMAFP will have a Silent Auction during the 60th Annual Family Medicine Seminar at the Ruidoso Convention Center/MCM Elegante Lodge & Suites. Proceeds will go toward the support of various activities throughout the year that involve our FM Residents & Medical Students interested in FM. This includes free registration for Residents & Students to all NMAFP Conferences.

Find that “very special item” you would like to donate this summer and bring it with you to the Ruidoso Conference. It will be a lot of fun, and the proceeds will support a very important cause. The Silent Auction held in Taos last year was a huge success bringing in over $4,000. Let’s keep up the good work for our Residents and Med Students!

Family Medicine Residency Reports

UNM - Kresta Antillon, MD
Happy Spring NMAFP Members! It’s about that time for a few updates from UNM Family Medicine Residency Program. Here at UNM, all continues to run smoothly and steadily in our clinics and on our Inpatient and Maternal Child Health services. So much so, that we have recently expanded our Milagro program, which provides comprehensive care for pregnant women with either a current or past history of substance use to a third clinic site. Also, this past January we completed another successful round of applicant interviews and are anxiously awaiting Match Day 2017 to see what new faces will be joining our UNM Family Medicine Team! And lastly, our PGY1 class is currently in the tail end of their Public Health and Scholarship rotation, and we look forward to seeing what ideas for community projects they are working on!

publishing endeavors. He is co-editor of the Textbook of Family Medicine (eds. 8 and 9), editor of Integrative Medicine (eds.1-4), and editor-in-chief of Primary Care Practice Update. Exploring complex systems and developing insight into how each individual can find a path towards health is Dr. Rakel’s passion which helps him address clinician burnout and strategize to improve health care delivery systems. He received NIH funding to study the effect of clinician empathy on patient outcomes and to incorporate healing modalities into medical school curricula. His team was awarded a 6-year contract to educate clinicians in the Veterans Health Care Administration to move towards a personalized, proactive, and patient driven cultural shift in health care delivery.

Dr. Rakel has been recognized for his interpersonal and teaching aptitude and was elected to be one of five mentors for the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health student body. He is board certified in family and integrative medicine and has been awarded a number of teaching awards including the Baldwin E. Lloyd Clinical Teacher Award, the UW Department of Family Medicine Faculty Excellence Award, the Marc Hansen Lecture Award, the Resident Teacher-of-the-Year Award, the Leonard Tow Faculty Compassion Award, and has been elected to the Gold Humanism Honor Society.

Dr Rakel and his wife, Denise, have three grown children and are excited about returning to the diverse cultures and landscapes of the west where they look forward to exploring new vistas and hiking trails.

Fight Diabetes, Heart Disease and More with Dairy

Why choose dairy? Foods like low-fat milk, cheese and yogurt are an important part of a healthy diet, and studies have shown they may even be related to reducing your risk of certain diseases.

Dairy has been linked with a lower risk of Type 2 diabetes

Researchers analyzing a variety of studies found that people who ate dairy, especially yogurt, had a 6 percent to 20 percent lower risk of Type 2 diabetes.

Dairy has been linked with a lower risk of heart disease

Several studies have shown that people who eat dairy, especially low-fat dairy, had a lower risk of both heart disease and stroke.

Dairy has been linked with a lower risk of osteoporosis

The essential nutrients in dairy, especially calcium and vitamin D, are important for achieving peak bone mass and reducing risk for osteoporosis later in life. Research has linked eating dairy to improved bone health, especially in children and teenagers.

How does it work?

- Dairy has nine essential nutrients. Milk is a simple, three-ingredient food - the only things added are vitamin A and D - that's naturally packed with tons of important nutrients, including electrolytes and high quality protein.

- Dairy has the nutrients you're missing. It is an important source of calcium, vitamin D and potassium, three of the four nutrients Americans are lacking, according to the Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

- Dairy's nutrients help lower blood pressure. Dairy is rich with a trio of nutrients - calcium, potassium and magnesium - that can help lower blood pressure as a part of the Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension diet.

Dairy is just one part of your daily diet.

Good food fuels good health, and dairy is just one part of that. Make sure you balance things out with fruits, veggies, whole grains and lean proteins along with your three servings of dairy every day.

Medical Students
Sponsored by NMAFP at the National Resident & Student Conference

Again this year, NMAFP will sponsor several Medical Students at the American Academy of Family Physicians Resident & Student Conference in Kansas City, July 27-29, 2017. Each year, an essay contest is held in which all interested Medical Students write a one-page essay on, “Why I Want To Become a Family Medicine Physician”. NMAFP feels this national conference offers a wealth of information to Medical Students and hopefully helps guide their future aspirations toward the specialty of Family Medicine.

Med Students, if you are interested in Family Medicine and want to apply for a scholarship to the Resident & Student Conference this summer, email your essay to Sara, familydoctor@newmexico.com by April 21st.

UNM FMIG Update
By Anna Kistin, FMIG President

In December 2016, FMIG invited Christine Barber, founder of StreetSafe, to lead a presentation on Human Sex Trafficking in Albuquerque. She discussed the work her organization does to support former sex trafficking victims and street-based sex workers. She also explained the risks that lead people into this dangerous work and the signs for healthcare professionals to pay attention to when caring for patients who may be at risk. In the session, first and second-year medical students practiced phrases to help patients feel comfortable in the clinic. FMIG fundraised $120 to help StreetSafe in support of the basic health needs of former sex trafficking victims.

In January, FMIG hosted Denicia Canada, Policy Director at Young Women’s United to give a presentation on women’s health-related bills that are being discussed in the NM legislature this session. Over forty medical students, PA students, and MPH students were in attendance. FMIG is also planning to co-host a session with the Association for the Advancement of Minorities in Medicine on translation and cross-cultural communication in the hospital setting with a panel of interpreters of four different languages. In March, FMIG will also host a panel of second-, third-, and fourth-year medical students to share information and tips that they wish they had known as first years. In May, FMIG will continue the tradition of hosting a “Prep for PIE” workshop for students to gain practical skills and information in preparation for their summer rural rotations, and will host the annual “Match Mixer” for fourth-year students who have matched into Family Medicine. FMIG is also laying the foundation to form a mentorship program for students interested in Family Medicine to be partnered with current Family Medicine resident mentors.

We are excited to announce the new first-year officers of FMIG. The new officers are: Anna Kistin (President), Joseph Sanchez (Vice-President), Huynh Nguyen (Treasurer), Bethany Colnheim (Secretary), and Janette Mares (Community Outreach Liaison).

Las Cruces - April Leonardo, MD

Las Cruces really has some fantastic weather...70 degrees and sunny in February! On the same chipper note, we recently completed our rank night gathering to review applicants to our program through the match. We had a large group of excellent applicants this year, and now we are eagerly awaiting the match results and our new, talented class. In the meantime, between then and now, the residents are planning a wellness retreat to combat burnout. We are all really excited about this!

We continue to work and train in our multidisciplinary teams. Our pharmacy resident, Dr. Candace Mims, just completed her research project, where she was working to facilitate our patients’ transition from inpatient to outpatient. This involved calling the patients after discharge to answer any questions they may have and to follow-up on medication, adherence and tolerance. Her goal was ultimately to decrease medication errors and minimize readmission rates. We look forward to learning of her results! Also, following their school break, our invaluable student behavioral providers are back to their regular hours in our clinic.

A new addition to our clinic this quarter are family practice nurse practitioners working with us both in the inpatient and outpatient settings. This is part of their clinical training, and we are more than happy to have them working alongside us. We also have a new Social Determinants of Health team in place. They are working with the residents and faculty to strengthen our awareness and incorporation of the social determinants of health in our daily practice. Our social workers and students are also there to back us up. Dr. Mary Alice Scott, our faculty anthropologist, has some of her students rotating through working on various research projects as well. Overall, we are constantly reminded of how lucky we are to have such a multi-disciplinary group of providers so integrally established into our residency.

The third year class is preparing for boards: we are planning on taking them in April. Good luck! Most of us have chosen a job for the upcoming year, but some of us are still undecided. The residency program is lucky to be retaining as faculty two of its graduating seniors: Dr. Minerva Medrano de Ramirez and Dr. Salvador Adame-Zambrano. One of the third year residents, Dr. Cynthia Saenz, who just won the poster conference at the winter refresher in Albuquerque (CONGRATS!), will be taking a hospitalist fellowship in Bismarck, North Dakota next year. Dr. Anna Roberti will be joining La Clinica de Familia in Sunland Park. And, one of our current attendings/recent graduates, has been accepted into an exemplary global health fellowship at the University of Massachusetts at Worcester.

Santa Fe - Estevan Apodaca, MD

No matter the season it is always a good time to be a part of the Northern New Mexico Family Medicine Residency Program. Several residents are taking advantage of the snow and the learning opportunities it provides through ski and snowboarding injuries. With the help of Family Medicine and ED Physicians in Taos Ski Valley, the location has become a great sports medicine rotation with excellent hands-on experience. We have also had residents learning at Holy Cross in Taos getting inpatient experience while still being able to make some turns on the hill when the schedule permits. We continue to have residents traveling throughout the world with rotations in Guatemala, Cuba, and Jordan. This past January residents spent time at the legislature learning just how important our participation as physicians is to both our practice and our patients. Several of our residents attended the Winter Refresher where Drs. Riniker and Maali presented posters. We are relieved to have completed our rank list after having many great applicants apply to our program. As it turns to Spring, we look forward to our resident retreat. Thank you to all of the physicians around the state that take part in our training and allow us to have opportunities that make the Santa Fe Residency Program as special as it is.
